Walnut Creek, Home-Building Boom or Bust? A Little of Both...

By Ron Chesney

We've lived in the Woodlands for 18 years, raised our son here through the MDUSD's schools, and have watched Walnut Creek, along with the Bay Area, grow and change for better and for worse.

The proposed townhouse development on Citrus Circle is a way for new families to join our community. In terms of increased traffic and congestion, I don't see that as a concern given the minimal impact, if any, it would have on our neighborhood.

Something to consider is the practicality of office buildings in our community; the suburban office park, with large lawns and a park-like setting, is an outdated model. I'm sure the existing owner is having the same challenges finding tenants as we see in the Shadelands. Take a drive down Lennon Lane, the large complex where the IRS is located remains largely vacant. The Varian Lab building was vacant for years until the CC School of Performing Arts moved in this Fall. There are many vacancies in the Walnut Creek Executive Park which faces Oak Grove Road.

The reality is to keep the office park from becoming a vacant eyesore, the city is transforming the area and bringing in different types of tenants. The sports complex under construction, combined with the Orchards, the proposed Via Monte housing, and the nursing facility planned adjacent to the sports complex, will bring in more traffic than what is under consideration for Citrus Circle. It does seem like the city allows builders to have the upper hand; and given the size of the Orchards, with many store fronts still vacant, I'm sure they're under pressure to allow more development to bring in customers to a complex that is a higher density than the neighborhood could support.

I don't think we can change what's in place, nor will a townhouse development on Citrus Circle be a negative addition to the neighborhood. What I'd like to see is a more community improvement-based development posture by the city. Why not push for more civic improvements by the developer like we saw with Citrus Walk...perhaps a polling of residents for neighborhood improvement suggestions would be worthwhile?

Long-term, I'd like to see improvements along Oak Grove and the entrances to the Woodlands on Peachwillow Lane and Citrus Avenue. Imagine, for a moment, if the city installed ornamental street lamps, like those downtown (or a more modern version), on Oak Grove from the canal to YVR...I think that would have a positive impact on our neighborhood. Consider Welcome to the Woodlands signage on Peachwillow and Citrus? Perhaps replacing the parking lot lights at Valley Verde with ones that are more attractive and less of a high crime feel. I also see a large amount of trash at times that could be lessened by more frequent street sweeping in our area.

Bottom line; a few more residents, in my opinion, is not going to bring the neighborhood to its breaking point and while we have all this development around us, due to our prime location and popularity, we should have the city use it to our advantage with civic improvements.

Thank you, Woodlands Association, for printing my views.

Eat is the Word – Woodlands Restaurant Review

Go Eat at Patra

By Bill Gilmyers

While the new restaurant offerings at the Orchards have been good, they've not added very much variety to the local dining scene. Burgers, sandwiches and pizza- check. The opportunity to order at the counter, and not have to deal with a pesky waiter or waitress- you got it. But if you wanted something a little different, the initial slate of dining choices wasn't going to help. Fortunately, Patra, which opened in late 2017 which replaced the short-lived Pancheros, provides a welcome bit of variety for those looking for a quick bite to eat.

While still in the "order at the counter" quick-serve model, the food itself at Patra sets itself apart. For fans of traditional Northern Indian cuisine, you'll find much that is familiar, with tikka masala sauce, lamb skewers and garlic naan all available. Alongside these favorites you'll find a range of interesting alternatives like wild caught cod, roasted paneer (a dense flavorful cheese) and turmeric spiced cauliflower. The food is seasonal and sourced locally and very fresh, so menu items change frequently.

The food at Patra is served in bowls, with diners mixing and matching a base, like rice, with a protein, a sauce and a couple of sides. Patra suggests combinations but you can combine whatever elements you like for your meal, and pricing is a la carte, so if you want to double your protein or add an extra vegetable you can. A fully decked out bowl will run $8-10 and comes with a little naan, though we usually order a little extra.

Overall, I've been very impressed with the quality of the food. The menu is not huge, but what Patra does make they make very well. There are lots of vegetarian options, and for those concerned about spice don't worry, the food is very mild. If anything, this is my one knit to pick with Patra, as I like a bit of heat in my food and unfortunately that's one area where they don't deliver. That said the food is flavorful and there are lots of healthy choices.

I hope it's the kind of restaurant our community can enjoy and embrace and show that we've got an appetite for more than just plain old American/Italian/Mexican cooking. If you've had the opportunity to eat there great, give it another go. And if you've been meaning to check it, go do it- you'll not be disappointed!

Brown Bread

By Colleen O'Donnell

In honor of St. Patrick's Day, I am sharing one of the tastiest things enjoyed in Ireland - Brown Bread. Soda bread made with a mixture of whole wheat and all-purpose flours, steel cut oats, wheat germ and wheat bran; this bread is hearty yet moist and delicious. It can be enjoyed on its own, but is amazing toasted with a generous pat of butter. If you are really feeling festive, try it with some Kerrygold Irish butter. Sláinte!

2 cups All Purpose Flour
 2 teaspoons kosher salt
 2 teaspoons baking soda
 1¾ cup Whole Wheat Flour
 ½ cup Wheat Bran
 ¾ cup Wheat Germ
 ½ cup Steel Cut Oats (you will mix 1/4 cup into the dough and use remaining ¼ cup to sprinkle on top)
 ¼ cup dark brown sugar
 2 2/3 cup Buttermilk
 1 Tablespoon melted butter

Preheat oven to 375°F. Butter and flour two loaf pans, and line with parchment paper.

In a large bowl combine all of the dry ingredients except for the ¼ cup steel cut oats needed for sprinkling on the top; whisk to combine.

Add buttermilk and melted butter and mix with a spatula just until ingredients are combined. Do not overmix; it will make the bread tough. Divide the dough between the two loaf pans and sprinkle the remaining ¼ cup steel cut oats on top.

Bake for approx. 45 minutes, or until lightly browned on top and knife or skewer inserted into the bread comes out clean.

Let cool for about 5-10 minutes, remove from the tin & remove parchment paper. Allow to cool on rack.

ASSOCIATION

Rich Raines, President
Donna Anderson, Newsletter

PRIVATE

VOLUME XXII, ISSUE II      MARCH 1983      Walnut Creek, CA

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Changes, changes and more changes. The Board members met with John Damavandi, owner-developer of Burton Center, and Steve Klee, the property manager. The concern of the Center's management is that some 30,000 square feet remain vacant after four years. Two years ago it was proposed that a Round Table pizza parlor occupy the vacant space but this brought strong opposition from those whose residential property abuts the proposed site and from those who felt that any such establishment would become a hangout for young people.

Mr. Damavandi was invited to communicate with Association members via the newsletter to express his concerns, explain his viewpoint and solicit feedback from the community. If you have an opinion regarding this proposed development, please respond if so asked and make your reaction specific so that potential problem areas can be addressed and, if possible, solved.

Secondly, the Walnut Creek Design Review Commission had approved a proposed two-story, 40,000 square foot, office building at the north-east corner of Oak Grove and Ygnacio Valley Road.

The design was approved unanimously, which is quite unusual. A public hearing on the design will be held in the City Council Chamber, 1666 North Main at 7:30 PM on March 16th. Alan Grant (PRIVATE) is the City's project planner and the design and plans may be obtained from the architect, Jerry Loving (PRIVATE).

Finally, please remember and plan to attend the General Membership Meeting, March 15, 8:00 PM, at Valley Verde School. Anyone interested in serving on the Board should contact Cindy Krause (PRIVATE), Don Mattern (PRIVATE) or Rich Raines (PRIVATE).
